

Job Advertisement: 2021 Post-doctoral Fellowships of Institute of International Studies, Shandong University

Institute of International Studies, Shandong University (IISDU) offers some of the best research environments in the world and invites recently qualified post-doctoral researchers to start their independent research careers here. SDU established its first post-doctoral research station in 1991 and currently has 41 post-doctoral research stations. In 2020, eight of the research stations were listed as excellent in a national evaluation, ranking seventh among universities in China. We sincerely invite you to join Shandong University as a post-doctoral fellow. Candidates from the following fields are welcome: Political economy, International politics, International economics, regional and area studies, international relations, economic geography etc..

Eligibility

- Applicants should be under the age of 35 and demonstrate strong academic and research abilities and abide by academic ethics.
- Applicants must be either in the final year of their PhD studies or up to 3 years of receiving a doctoral degree from a top university or research institution.
- The research project for a post-doctoral fellowship should be cutting-edge, innovative and feasible.
- Applicants are expected to devote at least 21 months to their postdoctoral research at Shandong University.

Outstanding working environment and financial support

Shandong University provides competitive salary and start-up funding for post-doctoral researchers and organizes international academic exchange programs for the post-doctoral fellows to encourage them to participate in high-level international academic activities.

Comfortable living environment

The university provides apartments with favorable rent for eligible post-doctoral fellows.

Colorful academic exchange activities

The university has established the Post-doctoral Fellows Society which aims to promote academic exchanges and cooperation between post-doctoral fellows in various disciplines. It also attempts to promote communication between local communities and enterprises and our fellows. All kinds of post-doctoral academic forums and sessions for post-doctoral projects will be held every year.

Contact Information

Email: li.yuan@sdu.edu.cn

Address: Institute of International Studies, Shandong University
No. 180 Wenhua Xilu, Weihai,
Shandong, China