

University of Strathclyde Chancellors Fellow in International Relations – Lecturer (Assistant Professor)/Senior Lecturer (Associate Professor)

Closing Date: April 10, 2022

Salary Range: Lecturer: £37,467 - £51,799

Senior Lecturer: £53,348 - £60,022

The School of Government and Public Policy seeks to appoint a Chancellor's Fellow in the area of international relations

We are open with regard to area of research across IPE and conflict, but are particularly interested in: climate change; environmental conflict; international organisations; global health; cyber security; autonomous/AI weapons; global finance and trade. Candidates should engage in empirical research with quantitative or mixed methods.

The school has a dynamic cluster of IR scholars, who work on various topics, including international and civil conflict, the arms trade, the international political economy of climate change, and feminism and social movements. The candidate will engage with this group to develop our IR teaching programme and major collaborative projects.

We would love to hear from you if you have a PhD and postdoctoral research experience; an emerging publication history in high quality academic journals; and research interests which align with this area of strategic priority – particularly if you already hold an external fellowship that can be transferred to us.

Chancellors Fellows have a reduced teaching and administrative loads during the initial years with the expectation that you will be eligible for promotion in 5 years.

Previous/Current Chancellors Fellows:

Despina Alexiadou, Patrick Bayer, Nicolo Daina, Zac Greene, Stefanie Reher

We would love to chat with anyone seeking further details about the position, Department, and/or University!
