Call for Applications: Tenure-track Appointment in The School of Political Science, Government and International Affairs, Tel Aviv University

The School of Political Science, Government, and International Affairs at Tel Aviv University invites applications for two open rank tenure-track positions. Preference will be given to researchers specializing in international relations or comparative politics, as well as scholars studying the interaction between politics and technology. The term of appointment will begin on October 1, 2025.

Successful candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or a closely related discipline at the time of appointment. Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence and endorsements from referees of high standing. The successful candidate is expected to pursue an innovative research program. Candidates must also demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Hebrew is the primary language of instruction at Tel Aviv University, and candidates must be able to teach courses in Hebrew within three years of their appointment.

Applicants should send a letter of interest along with a curriculum vitae, two writing samples, and brief research and teaching statements (no more than two pages for each statement). Interested individuals must submit their application materials using this link to the submission portal (HERE).

Additionally, applicants should ask for three letters of recommendation (on letterhead, signed) that should be sent directly by the letter writers to the search committee via e-mail to polijobs@tauex.tau.ac.il by October 10, 2024.

The committee will begin reading applications on October 10, 2024, but may consider files received after this date. The school reserves the right to make (or not make) an appointment according to its exclusive consideration.
